Prologue

Throughout our high school years we witness a creation, the growth and development of a single personality—an individual. As the sculptor molds his statue, the musician composes his symphony, it is we who create ourselves to fill a unique role in society.

Our record, the Tenakin, has captured but isolated glimpses of our developing characters. Pictures, which together reflect our individual aspirations, record each student's independent endeavors, be they scholastic, cultural, or athletic.

Embracing newly acquired knowledge and freedom, we prepare to assail the ramparts of conformity. Through creativity we shall assert our independence and become not just people but personalities, not just men but individuals.

Academics

The essence of learning is discovery through searching. This task requires reading, listening, debating and reasoning. The classroom provides the challenge, and the student accepts this stimulus and explores further. The individual must be guided by formal education, not molded, and he must expand from the core of information found within a textbook. To expand, one must have the desire to bridge the gap between darkness and enlightenment. Our school aspires to implant this desire within each student.

Mr. Eugene Van Vliet studies master computer program.

Mr. Eugene Littler contemplates expanded facilities of proposed high school.

Adaptability Reflects Able

Mr Ideas are formulated by Mr. Eugene Van Vliet and Mr. Eugene Littler.

Jan Jensen's excuse is approved by Mr. Bruce Oldford.

Offering their services in an emergency situation during Mr. Van Vliet's illness, Mr. Eugene Littler and Mr. Bruce Oldford skillfully took over the handling of administrative problems. As acting principal, Mr. Littler met with seniors to consider demands for a revised dress code and to discuss assembly topics. Acting vice-principal Mr. Oldford settled student-teacher relations and absence dilemmas until Mr. Van Vliet's return in November.

Returning to school life, principal Eugene Van Vliet met with teachers and THSers to talk over school policies and proved that, with understanding, the gap between the two can be bridged.

Office paperwork includes passes, absence notes, and dismissal excuses which Mr. Eugene Van Vliet and Mrs. Adele Molloy must initial.

Executive Leadership

Next year's athletic budget is filed by Mr. Eugene Littler.

Capable Mr. Bruce Oldford temporarily fills role of Vice-Principal.

Exploration of the unknown characterizes the THS science department, where students reach into the mysterious worlds of bioluminescence and organic substances. Biology teachers Mr. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Oldford, and Dr. Flint lead exploring pupils to the kingdoms of Plantae and Animalia. For juniors and seniors intrigued with the complexities of the living organism, Advanced Biology offers the opportunity for study of physiology, genetics, and embryology.

Concentrating on the mathematics of science, Mrs. Sorrell guides freshmen through the basics of physical energy, while Mr. Visco searches more deeply in college preparatory Physics. Mr. Hague and Mr. Baecht direct chemists through labs involving the chemical and physical nature of compounds.

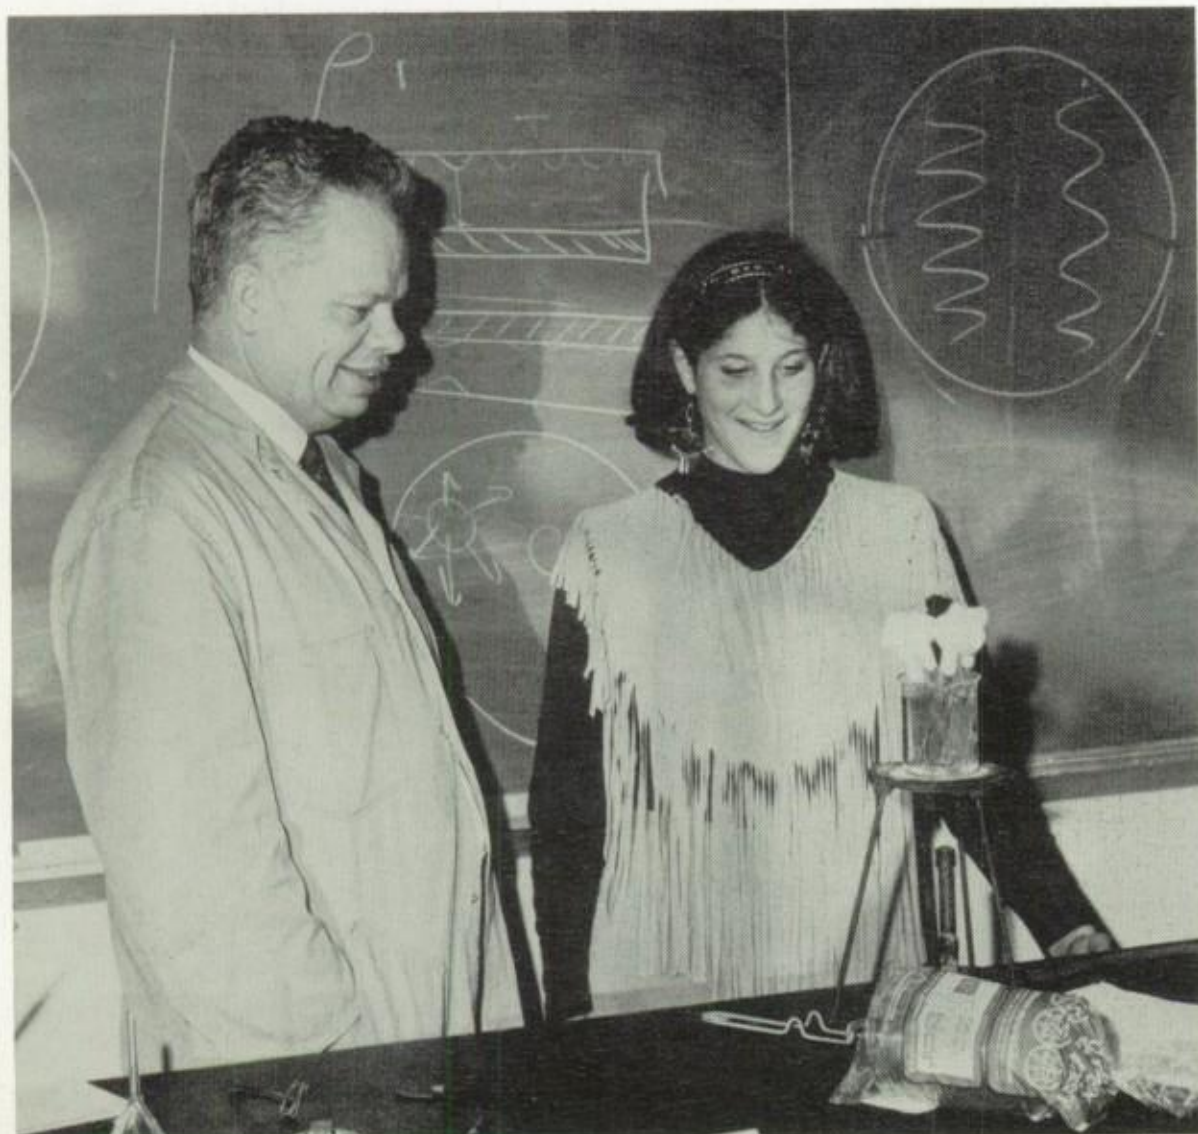

Mr. George Hague proudly demonstrates the new Mettler balance.

Joanne Bader and Mrs. Jeanne Oldford study parts of the microscope.

Day To Day Innovations

Mr. Louis Visco, physicist and philosopher, reflects on the pedantic response of a student.

Waving finger helps Mrs. Gladys Christakos emphasize her point.

Enthusiastic seekers of eternal truths find a veritable paradise in the infallible proofs and theorems of mathematics. Sets, number properties, and symbolic language confronts the Algebra 1 student, while the rigorous analytic and synthetic proofs of Geometry tax the intellect of the most ambitious budding mathematician. Entirely new concepts take shape in Algebra II where logarithms, variations, and progressions spark the inquisitive mind. College Preparatory Math includes the study of conic sections and trigonometry, but seniors may also dabble in the surveying and scale drawing of Senior Math, or even ascend to Newton's and Leibniz's lofty intellectual heights in the Calculus course. Whether his preference be syllogism or computer programming, the THS student may find in mathematics a great awakening.

While Mr. Robert Porter smiles knowingly, a student defends his opinion.

Historians at THS travel back in time thousands of years in World History to the Paleolithic culture, where their journeys through the ancient civilizations of Sumer and Babylonia and into the Shang and Chou Dynasties of China take place. Students of U.S. History advance into the American Revolution, the Spanish-American War, and Roosevelt's New Deal in the two hundred year study offered. Complementing the department, an elective, 20th Century World acquaints students with the lineage of Russian tsars and the increasing number of independent African countries.

Mr. Gordon Wallace seriously discusses the "ballyhoo" years.

Mrs. Barbara Ghnouly and Mrs. Alice Lalor follow Mets' baseball games rather than check out books.

Somewhere beyond the transient world of the five senses lies the elusive meaning and purpose of all existence, and in the English courses students examine the attempts of some of history's most inspired literary geniuses to unravel the mysteries of life.

Freshmen must come to grips with the profound themes of The Old Man and the Sea, The Pearl and "Romeo and Juliet," while Jonathan Edwards' sinners and T. S. Eliot's hollow men represent for sophomores the disparate views of individual American writers.

Long before the advent of Eliot's objective correlative, or even Edwards' hell and brimstone, Chaucer penned his amusing commentary on human nature in The Canterbury Tales, and Milton meditated on God, Satan, and the Fall in Paradise Lost. In their study of British Literature English III students meet such incongruous characters as Macbeth, Daisy Miller, Eustacia Vye, and Don Juan, strange bedfellows in England's literary tradition of fine writing.

In the Senior year students climax their study of English with a broad introduction to the Humanities. The mystical East confronts the rational West as ethereal strains from the Tao Te Ching and the Upanishads intermingle with the heavy tragedy of "Agamemnon" and "Oedipus." Nectar in a Sieve and The Plague represent contemporary Eastern and Western views of existence and exemplify the variety of individual answers posed by man to the riddle of life.

Students learn to express vocally their own interpretations of life and its problems in the speech and dramatics courses. Through the skillful manipulation of diction and intonation, facial expression, and bodily movement, students find an effective means of conveying their individual ideas.

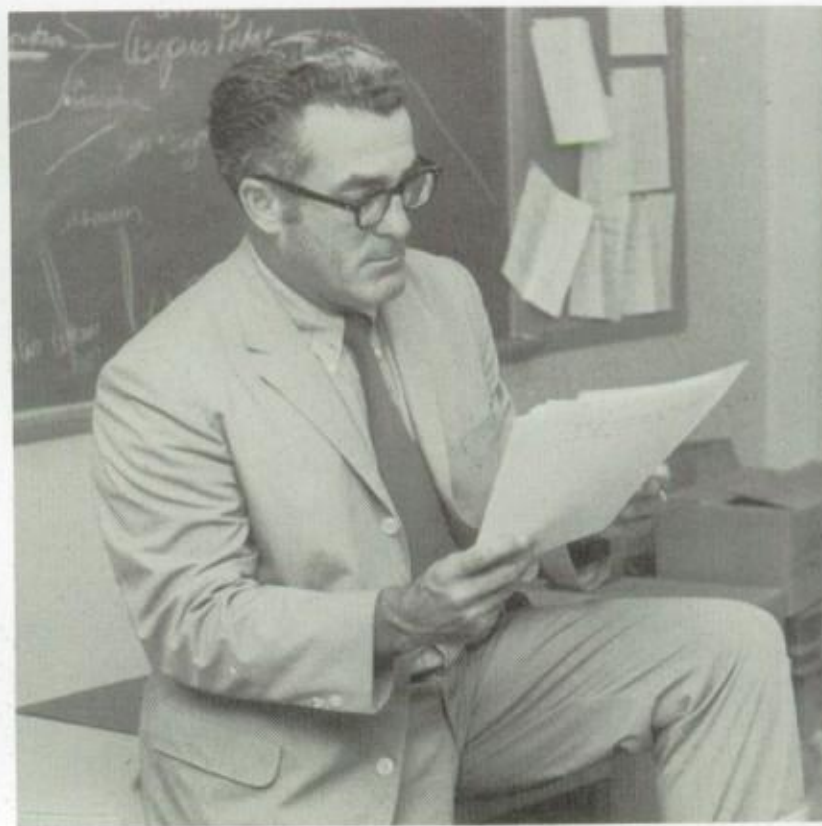

Mr. Lowell Battey lectures on the various aspects of American Literature.

Having just corrected his last composition, Mr. Edward Coghlan beams happily.

Essays are returned, graded by Mr. Francis Platt.

Mr. Robert Thoman emphasizes some themes and central ideas in Daisy Miller.

A correct response brings a smile to cheerful Mr. Gert Hoppe.

Tenaciously language students, in the tradition of the ALM teaching method, respond immediately to the sounds of Harcourt, Brace and World Incorporated. Keeping in mind the ultimate goal of having students think in the foreign tongue studied, the teachers of varying backgrounds conduct their classes in that language and produce an atmosphere conducive to foreign studies with the aid of maps, slides, foreign magazines, and memorabilia.

Students desiring to master Caesar's Gallic Wars and sections of Virgil's Aeneid investigate the complexities of Latin I and II under the guidance of Mr. Hoppe, also THS German teacher. The five years of study available to German Schüler include the short stories "Wunderkind" by Thomas Mann and "Der Richter und sein Henker" by Dürrenmatt, plus other works by Herman Hesse and poetry by Goethe.

Traveling westward to France, French scholars master the medieval poetry of Villon and the plays "Phaedre" and "Le Cid," as well as Gustave Flaubert's Madame Bovary. Rousseau and Voltaire provide an introduction to French philosophers. These intensive studies culminate with the Advanced Placement test for skilled seniors. Book reports, term papers, and oral lectures assist students in increasing vocabulary and conversing fluently.

Spanish students envision travels through South America and Spain while struggling over the intricacies of the subjunctive mood. More advanced Espanol students study Torquemada en La Hoquera and the short stories "El Guardagujas" and "La Revolucion." Russian I-IV courses, taught by Mr. Teschauer, involve knowledge of a foreign alphabet coupled with faultless pronunciation of this Slavic tongue. Advanced Russian studies investigate Pushkin's poetry and short stories of the 19th century, Turgenev's play "The Provincial Lady," Lermontov's "Bela," and Yevtushenko's realistic poetic style. Bach's soaring fugues and the intricate counterpoint of his baroque contemporaries carry eager music students back to the days of powdered wigs. Young musicologists meet such prolific Classicists as Mozart and Haydn and rise to lofty heights with the profound emotionalism of Beethoven. Inspired modern composers and those of ancient Greece join ranks with the well-known masters to give students a satisfying taste of music's great esthetic beauty.

Talented vocalists produce a delicate intertwining of voice in choir and glee club, while gifted musicians vent their bursting creativity in the band or orchestra. Under the direction of Messrs. Griffith and Stochowicz these young performers lend to our hallowed halls a delicate touch of culture.

THS art teachers, realizing the importance of freedom and individual expression in creative works, allow students to find their own techniques. Starting with a variety of media in Art I, students progress into the more difficult areas of three dimensional figures and interior decorating until reaching Art III, where the serious art student advances into oil paintings and modern art problems. Students' works exhibited throughout the year on the school walls and in display cases offer artists the opportunity to show their sculptures, water colors, and landscapes to a scrutinizing public. Analysis of more well-known works in Art Appreciation teaches an understanding of art through critical viewing of both modern and classical styles.

Pitting their wits against such perennial problems as student discipline and the annual budget, the members of the Board of Education strive to set a rational policy for the public schools. Aspiring to the ideal educational system, they are currently deliberating on plans for the new high school.

Similarly devoted to Tenafly's tradition of academic excellence, the PTA awards scholarships to students with superior scholastic records. It also sponsors occasional high school assemblies and topical panel discussions open to all, in the hope of improving parent-teacher-student relationships.

Activities

Participation in Tenaflly High School occurs in a seemingly endless list of activities. No student need be restricted as to the choice or the number of clubs he wishes to join. THS provides facilities for each individual to find himself culturally and socially, as well as expand academically. Those students interested in the arts can turn to Sparcs, the Film Forum, or Unicorn. Musicians gain experience in the Orchestra and Choir, while the Student Organization provides training for the politically minded. The cooperation learned and the friends gained through sharing experiences in school activities will be of invaluable service to us when high school days have ended.

The Junior Class Council discusses the profit from the candy sale to be used for a field trip, and funds from a rummage sale to be used for charity.

Mr. McDermott goes home after a weary day of advising juniors.

Officers of the Junior Class, Barbara Kanski, Treas., Larry Oshin, Vice-Pres., Bob Prosser, Pres., and Arlene Hajinlian, Sec., set a quick pace for the year.

Juniors Forge Ahead

Under the ever helpful guidance of our class advisor, Mr. McDermott, this year's Junior Class has been active in many areas. The year began with a class ring sale which proved to be very successful and was followed by an equally prosperous candy sale in which Bill Sahadi took all honors as high salesman. The funds collected will help finance next year's prom.

In place of a Junior Prom, it was decided to have a Junior "field day" in the Spring. Our class schedule also includes a rummage sale; profits will be donated to charity. After a full Junior year, we have hopes for an equally eventful Senior experience.

The Sophomore Class Council, representing all the students in the Sophomore Class, plans fund raising events and other activities throughout the year.

Mrs. McCarthy, Sophomore Class advisor, counsels Mark Jacobs.

Only in its second year at THS, the sophomore class has proved to be one of the most successful groups in the school. Sophomores have shown overwhelming participation in all their class activities. Early class sponsored charity drives have shown our great spirit. Selling tickets for the Junior-Senior Play in February and the Freshmen-Sophomore Play in April rewarded the class with a profitable gain in the treasury.

Aside from the Freshmen-Sophomore Play, major projects of the spring included a candy sale in March, sponsored by Heath, and a Sophomore dance, which again revealed our tremendous class spirit.

With total class involvement in both our Freshman and Sophomore years in THS serving as a springboard, our Class of '72 is sure to reach great heights by the time we are Seniors.

Mike Duggan
Sophomore Class President

Sophomores Display Spirit

Sophomore Class Officers, Vice-Pres. Sue Shepard, Sec. Elaine Shapiro, Pres. Mike Duggan, and Treas. Larry Oshin, enthusiastically lead the class.

Pam Lerner, Sec.; Robert Schults, Pres.; Robin Greenwald, Vice-Pres.; and Robert Greenblatt, Treas., Freshmen Class Officers, anticipate a productive year.

This year's Freshman Class found, upon entering the high school, that the council had no money to work with. After the initial shock of this discovery passed, we worked to overcome the problem. Its first job completed, the Class of '73 cultivated new ideas and put them to work.

We successfully finished several projects. Students collected trading stamps and sent them to an underprivileged Indian tribe. Another way of demonstrating our concern was to visit a children's home.

We felt that we met the challenge of the year by surmounting many obstacles. The members of this class expect to encounter new problems in the following years, but we feel that the first step has been made, and the only way to go is up.

Robert Schults
Freshman Class President

Mark Sorenson consults with Mr. Brown, Freshman advisor.

Eager Freshmen Innovate

Freshman Council inspires their class to buy the most S.O. cards, hire the most buses, join the most clubs, and attend the most football games.

This year's S.O. proved to be the most active THS has seen in many years. No job was too big or too small for the organization to look into, and in their quest for more rights and privileges, the students often met with surprising success.

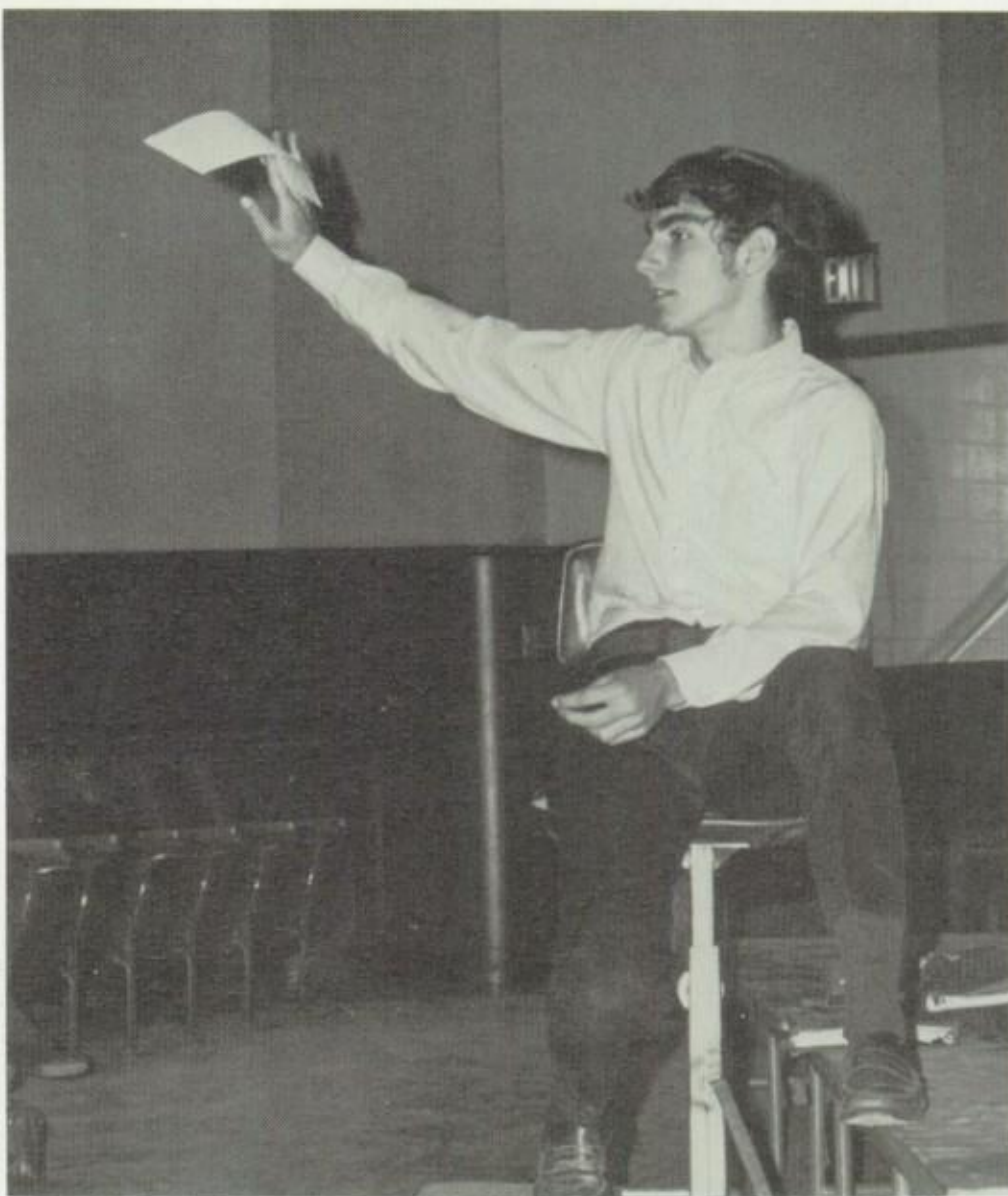

Early in September, I had the pleasure of announcing the virtual abolishment of the dress code. The S.O. arranged for excused absences from school during the Oct. 15 Moratorium and provided a controversial assembly. This year's assembly program combined traditional assemblies with unique performances.

Another success was the addition of the juke box in the cafeteria. After this accomplishment, we launched a campaign for study hall changes and a Communications Committee, uniting students and faculty.

You are so much more than you'll ever know or ever believe. For me to be able to share my joys and love with life completely, you would make my life complete. I wish you could just understand that and let me. I do love you, I really do. What can I say? Please let me show you, please, because you're the only girl I feel this way about. It can happen and it should happen. Please. Love Paul

Sports

Confidence and determination marked this past sports year at THS. Football players tirelessly passing and tackling on the field, cross-country runners suffering through grueling practices, and wrestlers endlessly training on the mats displayed the aspirations of all involved. But at each game or meet, one could discern more by the appearance of an athlete's face: the pained look of defeat, the smile of victory, and pride in individual achievement.

Scrambling quarterback Jeff Graf tucks the ball and skirts the end.

... Crunch ...

"When the going gets tough, the tough get going," barked Coach Buzz Firkser before the football season's outset. Although dormant talent and lack of experience made Firkser's statement seem dubious, Tenafly strengthened, and the Tigers jumped to three straight victories, edging a highly touted Pascack Hills club and devastating Cresskill and Rutherford. All season the gridmen's solid defense held the team in close contention for the league crown, despite losses to Cliffside Park and New Milford. The inspiration and know-how instilled in these athletes by coaches Firkser, Schneider, Mullin, Spilewski, Hurst, and Sano spurred on the Tigers and remolded them, both physically and psychologically, from players to winners.

Beaten by a step, Pete Rogers lunges to regain defensive control and frustrate a Dumont drive.

Footmen Conquer Rivals

1969 has bestowed Coach Billings and Tenaflly with probably the finest soccer squad in Tenaflly's history. Surprisingly no one stood out from the rest. Instead, the whole team consisted of standouts, equally sharing scores, equally sharing the burden. Seven of the eleven starters received berths on honorary teams, and the statistics reflect their superior strength. In league play the booters earned a nine, one, and two record and overall posted an eleven, two, and four mark. Soccer men always rose to the occasion, a sign of a championship team. Only at Morris Knolls did the team falter because of inexperienced Sophomores and Juniors. In crucial games with Rutherford and Dumont the Tigers came through in the clutch and clinched the league lead. Ability, desire, and balanced team play spelled victory for Tenaflly.

BCSL Champions

Tenaflly mercurians stampeded the league, taking team after team in stride. Co-captains Al Brechbill and Phil Miles and senior Gary Halsey shared their three years of experience to the fullest as the Tigers rolled to a 13 and 0 dual meet record. Phil Miles, Rich Karrh, and Glen Hutloff paced the cross country team to the Northern New Jersey crown. They consistently dominated league competition, usually placing one, two, three. Senior Phil Miles, outstanding as a sophomore, continued his reign in the BCSL, breaking course records and running circles around the opposition. Rich Karrh and Glen Hutloff complemented Miles, often filling in for the injured veteran. Bad breaks contributed to the harriers' only disappointing performance at the state meet, but in the Waldwick Invitational, BCSL, Bergen County, and State Sectional meets the Tigers took first places. Experience, talent, and determination made the Tigers winners.

Comprised primarily of inexperienced Juniors, the roundballers had a long desolate season. Lack of height limited control of the boards and often held offensive threats to one field goal attempt. In all other aspects the Tigers individually displayed great potential, but in game situations could not click as a team. Despite a disappointing record, the hoopsters showed glimpses of brilliance, as evidenced in a 40-7 half-time score against Cresskill. Such powerful surges and a large force of returning lettermen prophesy league domination for next year's team.

Heavyweight Ted Van Poznak hog-ties a wallowing Fort Lee bridgeman.

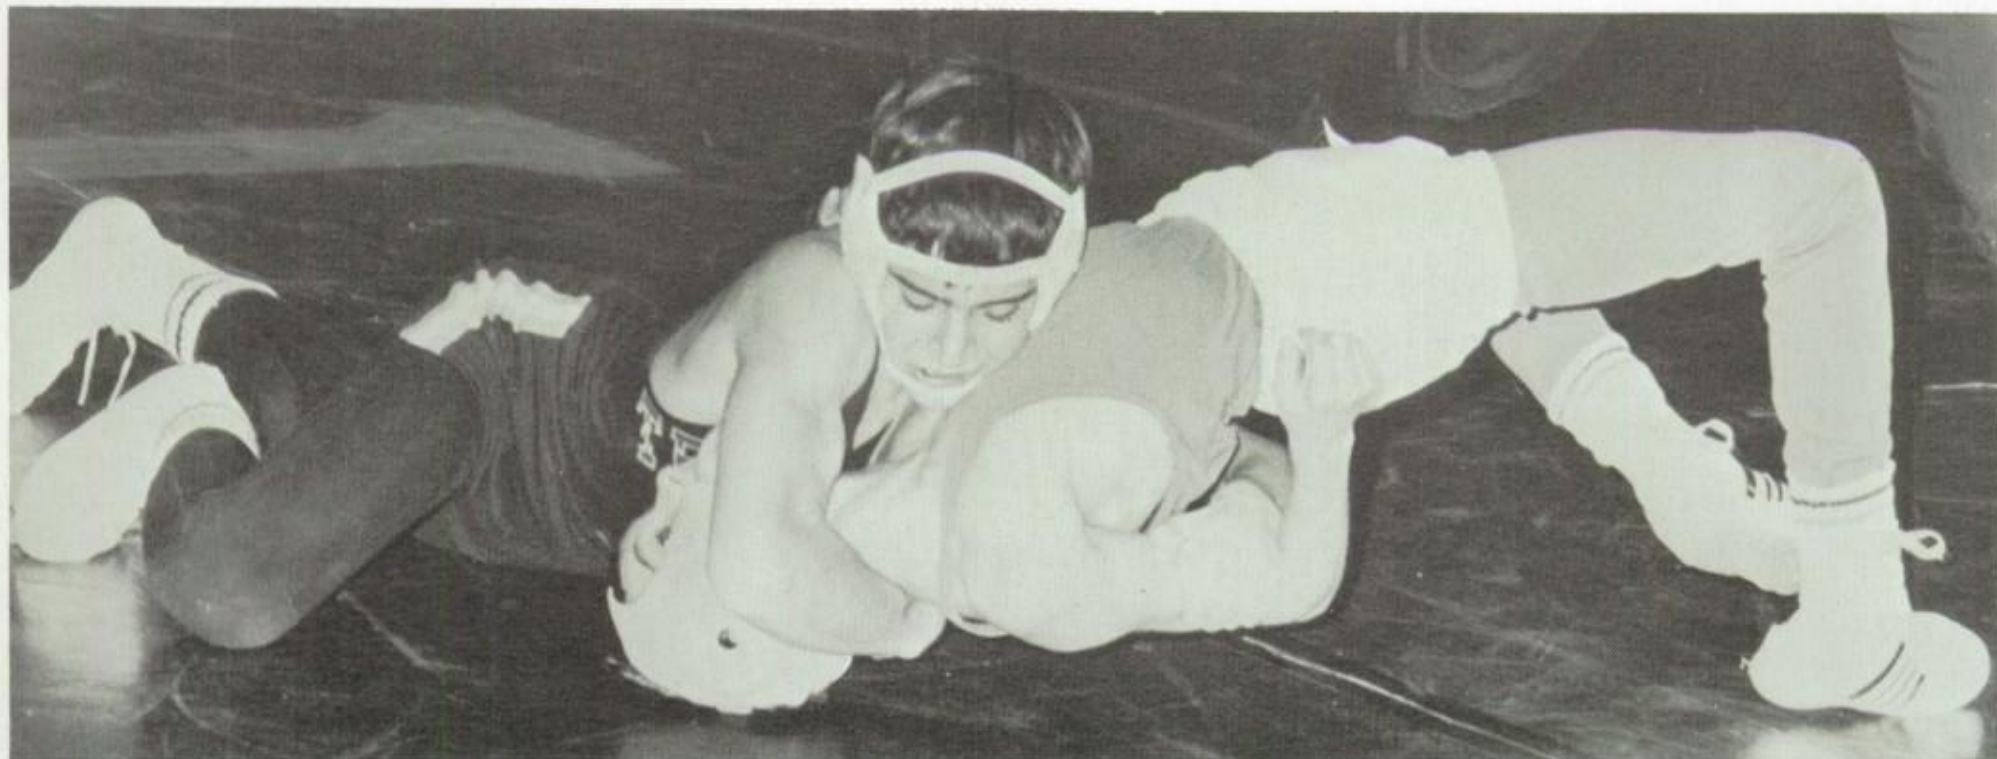

Out of referee's position, Mike DiLiberto employs a "tight-waist and ride."

Applying the pressure, Marty Sherry brings foe to his knees.

Grapplers Overwhelm

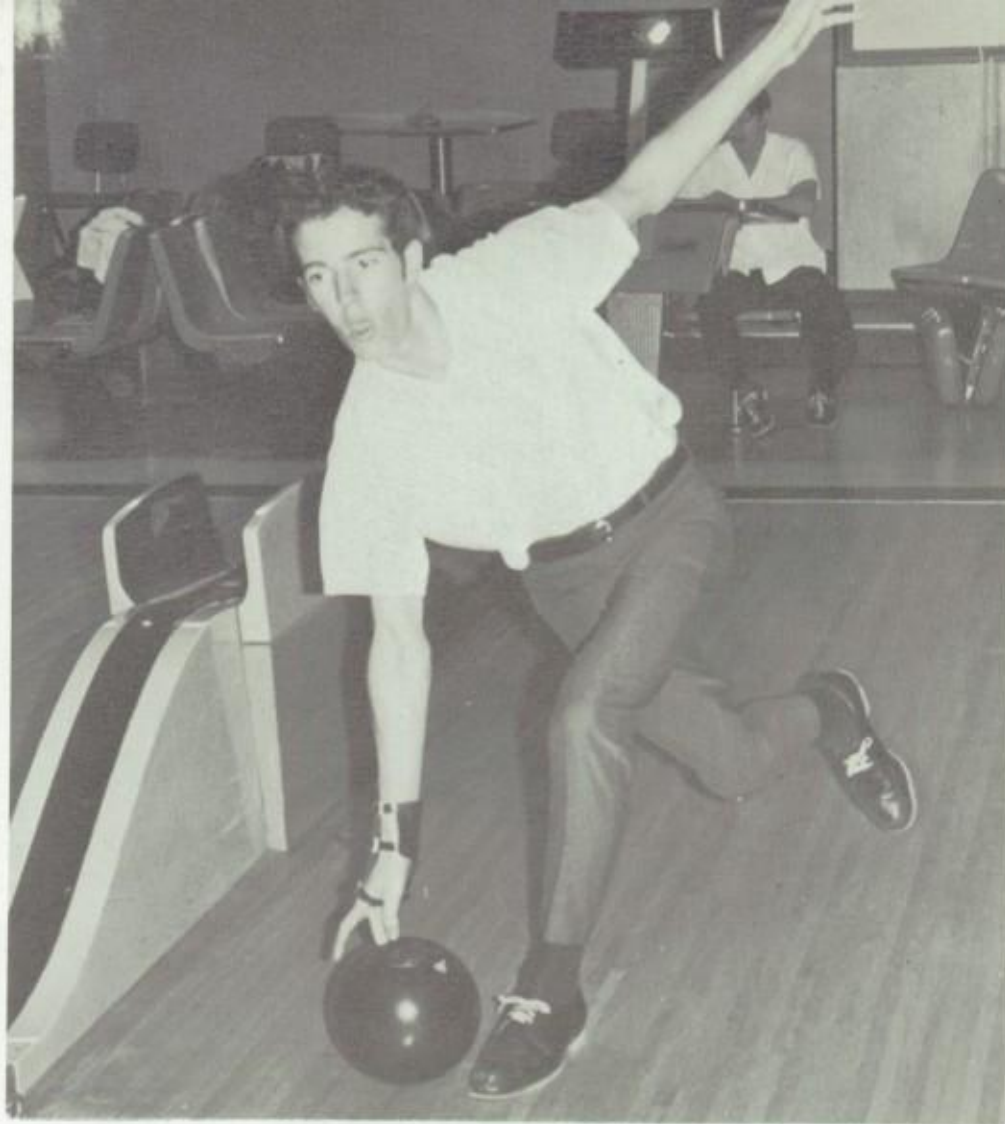

As his struggling opponent counters with a bridge, pugnacious 98 pound David Nunez sinks the half-nelson in an attempt for an early pin and five points.

Coach John McDermott has perpetuated his bowling dynasty in Tenaflly High School with another outstanding squad. With the experience of a seasoned veteran, Captain Gary Toleno jelled the team behind his high-scoring tempo. Deftly following Toleno's example, Seniors John Taxeras and Rich Jaeger completed the nucleus of the team. Adding depth, sophomores Gary Cannon and Neil Kassman rounded out the foursome and will provide the basis for the extension of Tenaflly's reign at the alleys next year.

Rich Jaeger bowls his way to the highest series in the league, 425.

Releasing, Captain Gary Toleno guides his shot towards the 1-3 pocket.

Pinmen Strike Unsparingly

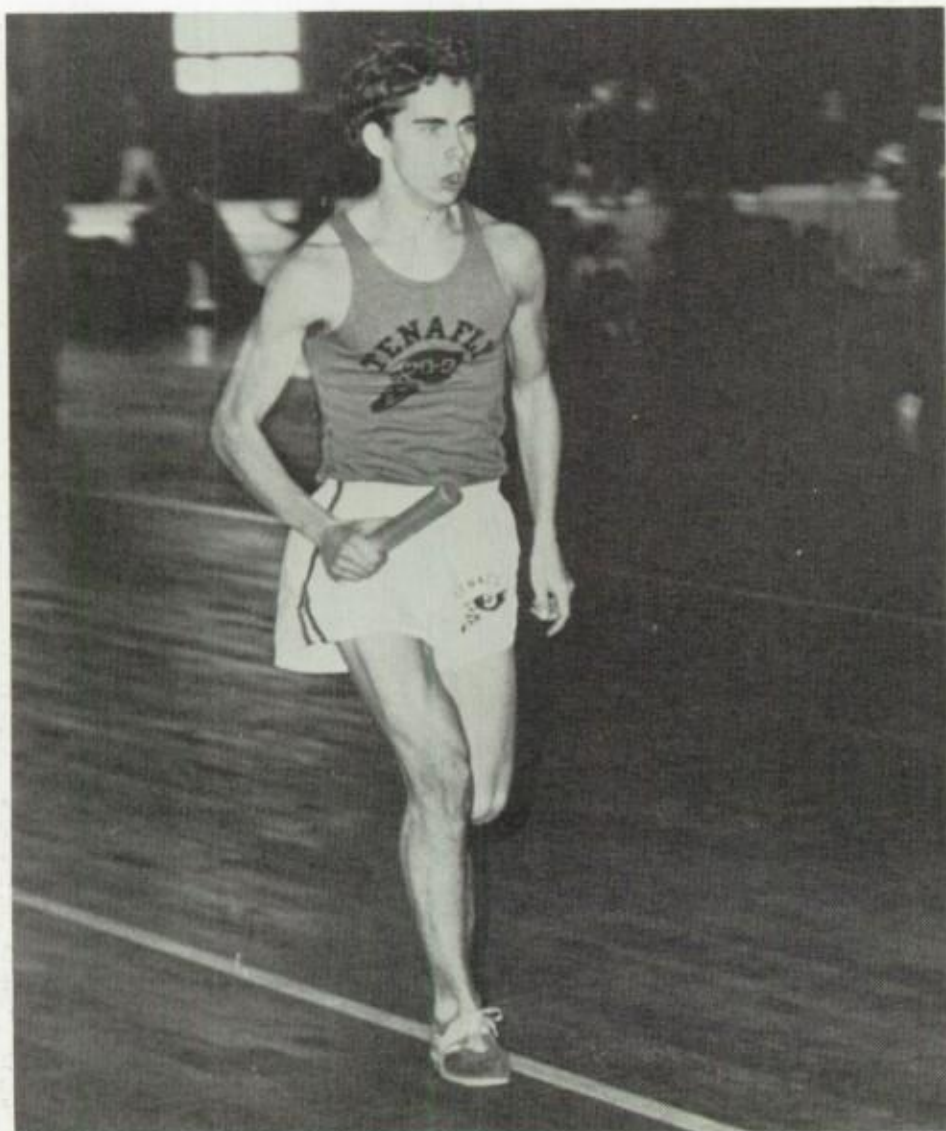

Bowlers pose as pins: Captain G. Toleno, J. Taxeras, R. Jaeger, G. Cannon, N. Kassman.

In spite of a meager following, a spirit of intense competition characterized the sport of Indoor Track. Instilling the fervor of determination Coach Robert Waterman strove for his third State title in four years. With the State Championship in sight, the Tigers trained every Saturday at the Jersey City Armory in the anticipation of victory. Despite record performances by Phil Miles and Rich Karrh in the mile and two mile respectively, Tenafly finished third. Hopefully next season will be the year of the Tiger.

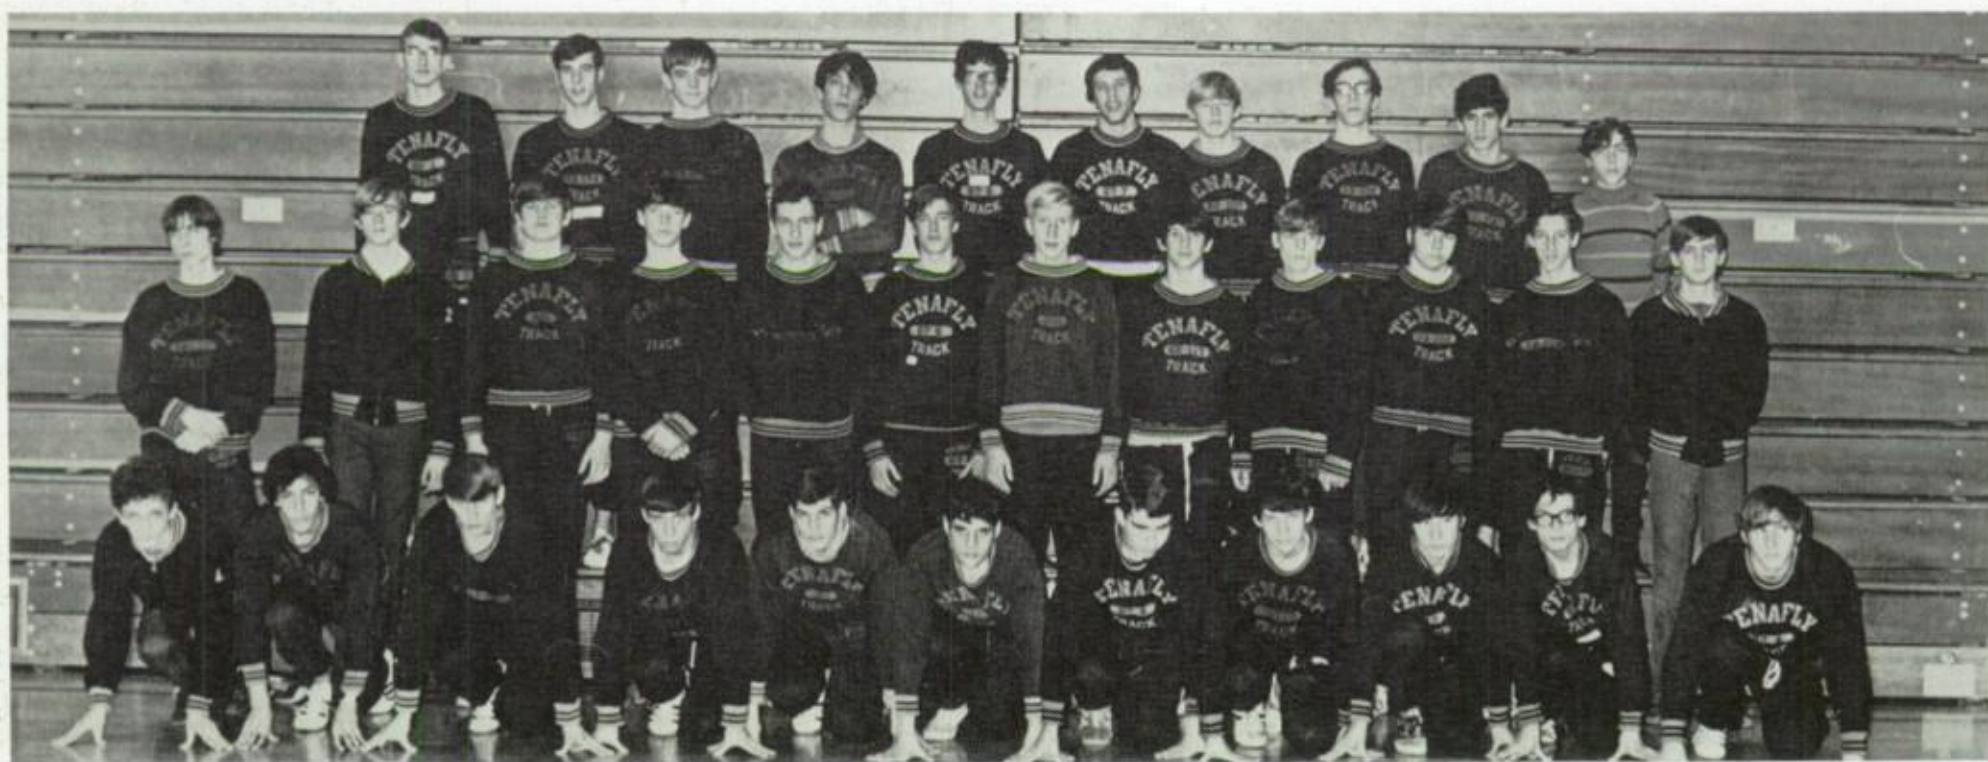

Captain Gary Halsey, running a leg in the two mile relay, scampers home.

Senior Phil Miles stretches his stride in the mile leg of Distance Medley.

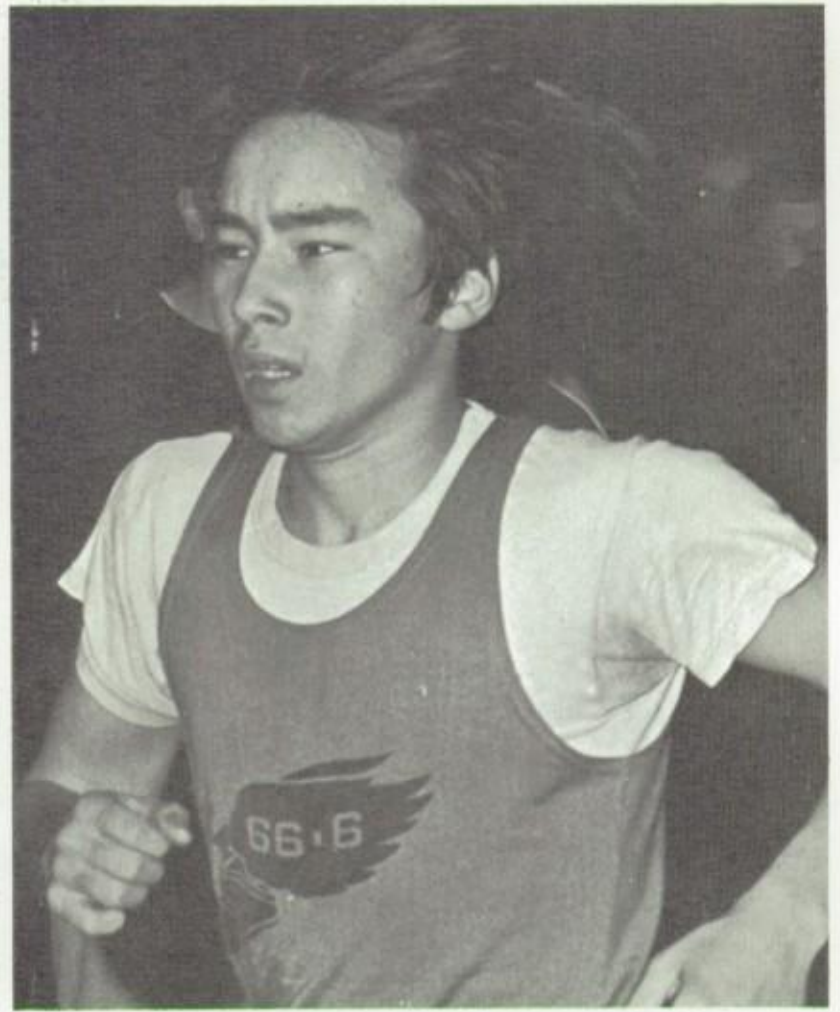

Fleet Indoormen Sparkle

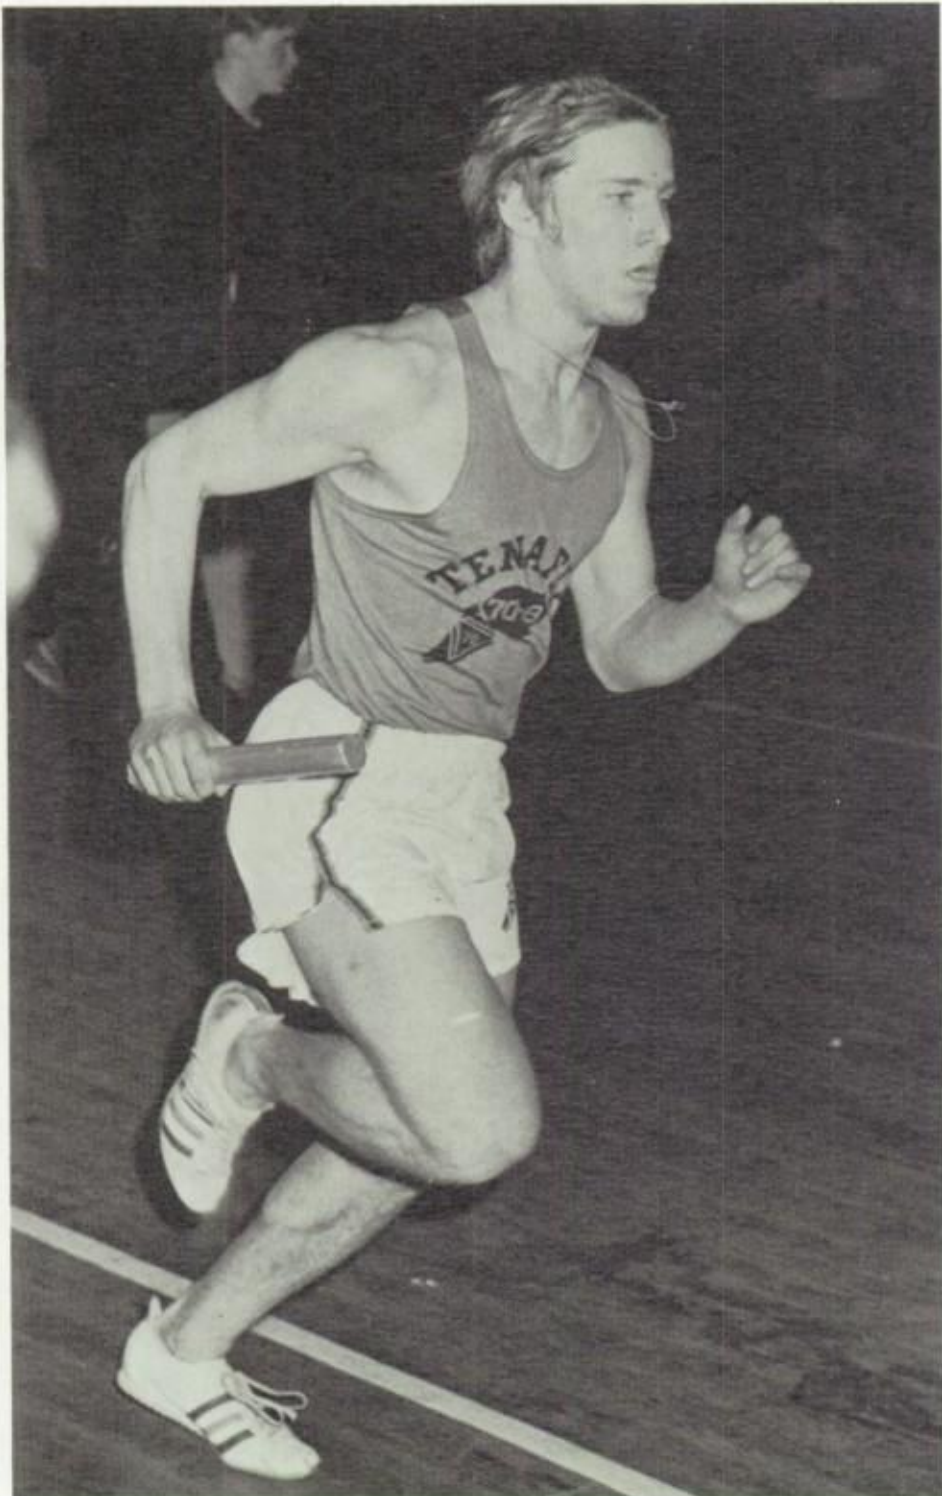

Indoormen: Front Row: R. Chandler, A. Koons, K. McKellop, E. Carson, G. Caro, R. Helmuth, G. Halsey, R. Rubin, G. Hutloff, R. Santoro, K. Fried. Second Row: R. Leonardi, W. Lilley, J. Verbiest, D. Hosmer, J. Mosconi, M. Dexter, J. Wahrenberger, M. McCracken, B. Schwepp, R. Roux, J. Rubin, C. Yanetti. Third Row: N. Couper, M. Denise, M. Kane, A. Feffer, P. Miles, P. Harvey, R. Karrh, K. Toffey, J. Braimon, J. Nastucke await the start.

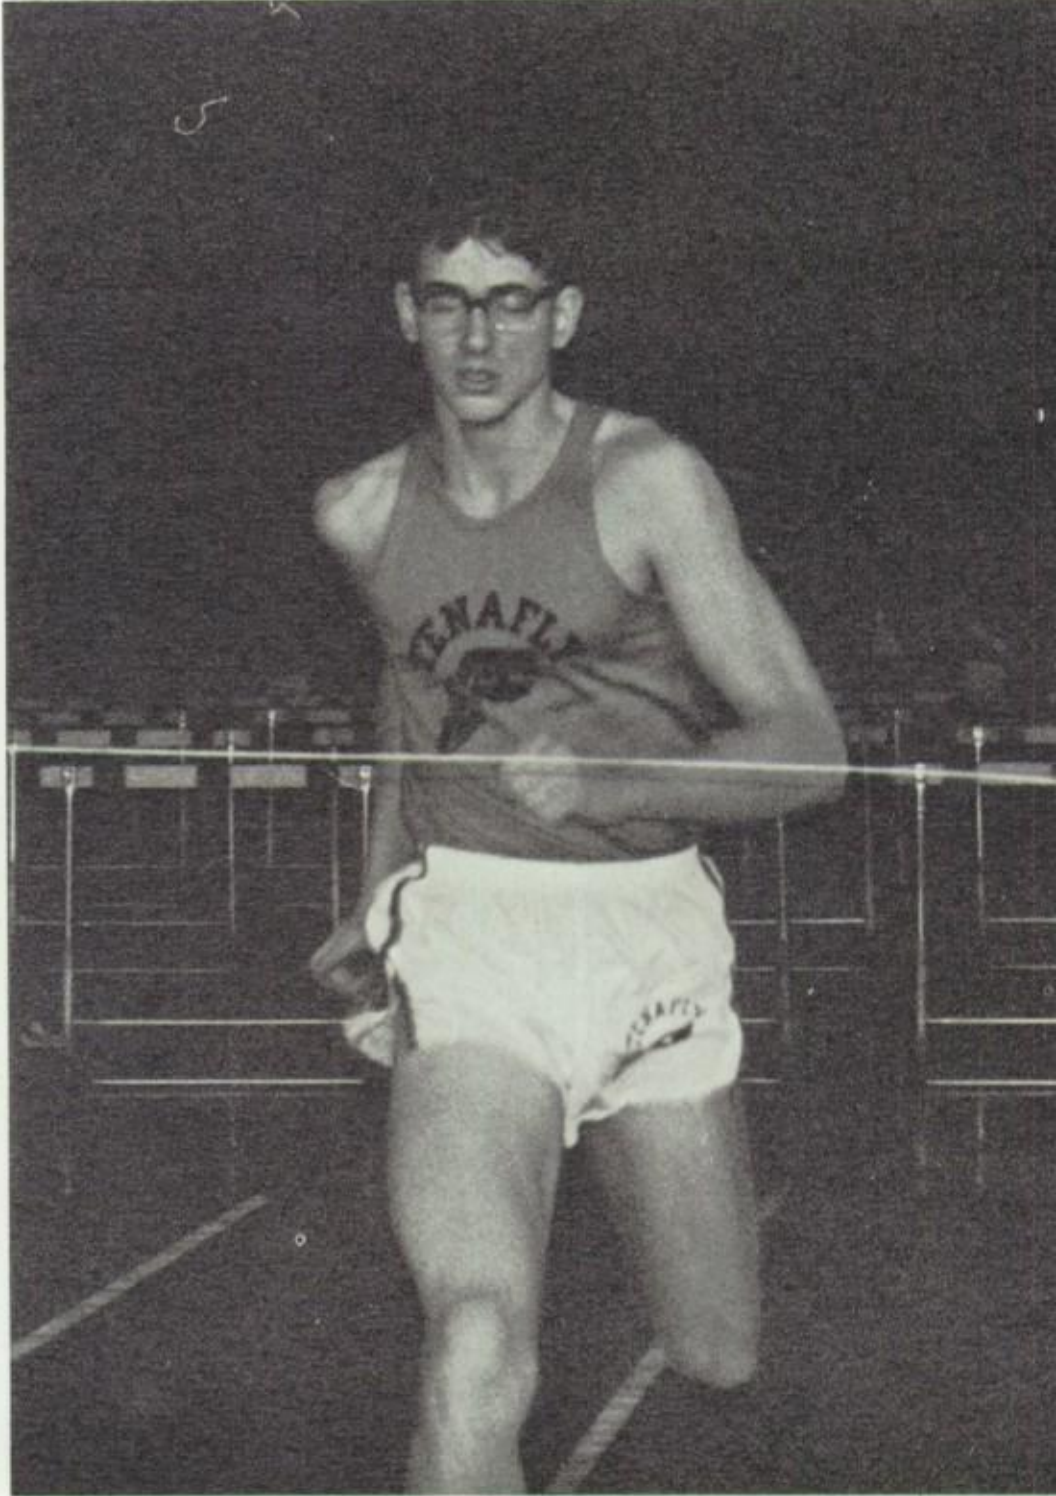

Relaxed Rich Karrh waits before his record breaking two mile effort.

Long-distance man Glen Hutloff fights for a second wind.

Clutching baton, Ken Fried sprints to flawless handoff in mile relay.

In a hurdling qualification round Nick Couper strains toward the tape.

Baseball team members: Front Row: K. Fried, R. Albom, Co-Capt. G. Pichard, Co-Capt. B. Bernhardt, D. Reitz, J. Saams, K. Kaplove. Second Row: J. Van Horne, T. Dwyer, D. Kiel, R. Yaldezian, C. Willis. Back Row: R. Gedney, S. Lenox, J. Wilbur, C. Puetell strive to win League championship.

Jeff Saams reaches back and deals a blazing fastball.

Coach George Schneider has trained and polished a team without much innate baseball prowess into a real contender. Tiger glovemen, led by Co-Captain Brian Bernhardt at second base, Ken Kaplove behind the plate, Doug Reitz at third, Ken Fried at short, and Rich Albom in the outfield, provide strong fielding ability. Although the Tiger hitters have had a slow start, senior pitching-aces Jeff Saams and Co-Captain Gary Pichard form the basis of hope for Tiger baseball.

Hurlers Fire Strikes

Co-Captain Gary Pichard bends his back for extra stuff on his curve.

On the sidelines, baseball mentor George Schneider signals for a bunt.

Batmen Must Swing

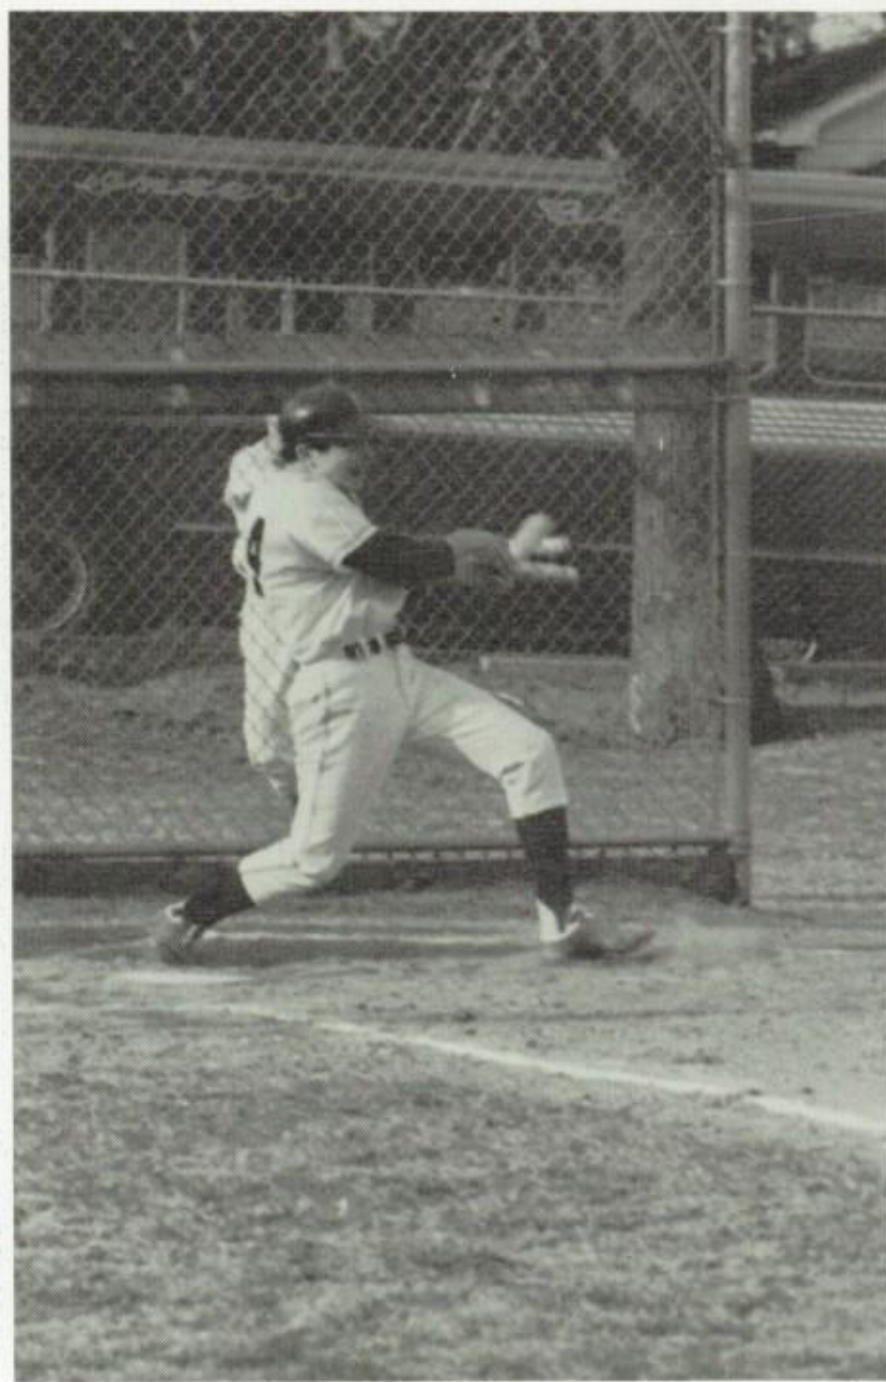

Stabilizing the infield, Senior shortstop Ken Fried, makes back-hand grab on hot liner.

Catcher Ken Kaplove ups his average with another shot to the outfield.

Fleet third-baseman Doug Reitz readies a bullet for first.

Reviewing season's errors, outfielder Gerry Lombardo ponders fate of Tiger baseball.

Senior Tom Ruhle unleashes a blazing serve from the baseline.

Playing first singles, junior Mike Van Ost powers back a short lob.

For the 1970 Tennis team, first year Coach Francis Platt has shouldered the burden of maintaining the Tigers' long league winning streak. From the '69 team, five lettermen are returning: seniors Peter Albertsen and Tom Ruhle, and juniors Bob Prosser, Mike Van Ost, and Jim Lefkowitz. Although the top two graduated last year, this year's team will compensate for the loss with tremendous depth, each player in the competition for a top spot. With this unusual amount of ability the '70 netmen have set their sights high, toward the BCSL crown.

Bogeymen Shell Greens

Under the able supervision of Coach Charles Billings, the 1970 Tenaflly High School Golf team hopes to flourish despite the graduation of three starting seniors from last year's squad. The only returning letterman, three year veteran Gary Toleno, plans to spark a team of neophytes to a winning season. Due to the spring snow, the team lost valuable practice time. In spite of early setbacks, the Tigers look forward to a bright season.

Sensing victory, Co-Captain Nick Couper finds hurdles no obstacle.

Mike DiLiberto and Ted Van Poznak confidently prepare to do battle.

Cindermen Mop League

The 1970 Tiger Track team promises to be the powerhouse in league competition. Coach Robert Waterman has trained and drilled Tenafly cindermen in the fine points of track, making it not only a sport but also an art. As always, team strength lies in individual excellence. Names like Tony Donovan are synonymous with pole vaulting, as are Nick Couper with hurdling, Tim Strelitz with the discus, and Phil Miles with the mile. Such individuals will, in all likelihood, make Tenafly the league's outstanding team.

Seniors

A time of relentless questioning and self-evaluation, the Senior year arouses in the most uncommitted student a desire to define his individual convictions and aspirations. The past year has been taken up by school studies, a magazine drive, and, more important, future plans. For it is during the next several years, whatever the goal, that we will gain independence and be educated by broader experiences outside the confinement of school walls.

Senior Class President, S. Rothman, reminisces about the successful school year.

Underclassmen

Time passes on almost imperceptibly and in a short four year span, carefree freshmen become more subdued seniors with an eye to the future. The metamorphosis is a gradual one, and for each individual the timing is different. Yet, every day of an underclassman's life contributes something special to the growth of his evolving personality.

Much can happen before graduation finally arrives. Whether a student finds himself in a new field of study or an extracurricular club, by the close of his senior year he has emerged into a significantly different person.

Juniors . . .

Three of Mr. Visco's good students, aspiring female physicists Mari Jablow, Nancy Haber, and Debbie Flax, collaborate on a difficult lab.

Cathi Agnelli, Larry Oshin, Lou Morelli, and Katie Muldowny discuss Echo headlines while senior Kevin Lichten ponders over copy.

Epilogue

Our Senior year represents both an end and a beginning along the path of personal growth and maturity. As our class concludes its high school career, we reflect upon individual achievements and developing personalities. Inspired with newly acquired knowledge, we prepare for future responsibilities with confidence, ambition, and independence.
